Subject: Heads up: Ramazzini manuscript likely to be published in mid-September

Just a heads up that the manuscript on Ramazzini that several of our scientists authored will likely be published in Environmental Health Perspectives in mid-September. We just found out the paper was accepted, the requested edits are minor (and due back on Sept.12), and the paper could be published online within a few days of EHP receiving the revised manuscript.

We prepared a desk statement back in January when the paper was submitted to the journal. I've attached it here. I also recall giving Bob K a heads up about this one back in January. Will you give him a heads up that the paper will be published soon?

Let me know if you have any questions. Thanks!
